

Customized Mobile Workflows: Your Organization's New Superpower

Mobile processors have always been interested in customized processes that increase efficiency and are specifically designed to fit their organization's needs. Because of this, Blanco has updated its Mobile products to enable customized workflows. These customized mobile workflows help mobile organizations lock down and automate processes, reduce training times, adopt best practices and intelligently process assets based on specific customer needs, device profiles and Mobile OS requirements.

What are Blanco Customized Mobile Workflows?

Our customized mobile workflows allow you to tailor our mobile diagnostics and erasure products to perfectly fit your organization's needs. Blanco Mobile can work as an independent solution or integrate seamlessly into existing systems, leveraging two-way API communication into critical systems, such as your enterprise reporting and warehouse management systems. We can work directly with these systems to create efficiencies and build repeatable processes for erasure, grading and diagnostics across the entire mobile processing lifecycle.

Simple mobile workflows can be created in as little as a few minutes, and the platform makes it easy to enable custom workflows using our graphics engine. And you aren't limited to one or two customized workflows; you can create as many as you need to address your requirements.

Benefits of Mobile Workflows:

- Create streamlined and automated diagnostics and erasure workflows across the entire device handling process
- Reduce training time for new employees
- Take advantage of 2-Way API integration
- De-skill your operational processes to increase monetary savings
- Create a tiered pricing structure based on specific security requirements
- Adopt best practices and standardize processes for grading, diagnostics and erasure throughout your organization
- Easily process different types of devices for different companies, using different erasure standards and unique test sets
- Split out multiple workflows based on your internal processes and customer requirements
- Weed out common issues early in the grading/diagnostics process (e.g. battery tests, mobile locks) to prevent unnecessary touches and wasted time
- Create conditional data points based on desired outcomes

Why Blanco Customized Mobile Workflows?

Want to outpace your competitors? We can help you gain the competitive advantage in your industry by helping you earn maximum refurbishment value for mobile devices. And with customized, automated grading, diagnostics and erasure processes in place, you can offer customers more money for buyback devices—increasing revenues, enhancing profit margins and keeping everyone happy. We're confident that once you use workflows in your mobile processing environment, they'll become an essential tool for how you do business.
